Good Ball Team Assured at Storrs. The prospects for a fair nine at the Connectiont agricultural college look very good at the present time. The infield is especially strong and there are two pretty likely candidates for the catcher's position. Beebe of Norwich and MacQuivey of Middle-bury, Vt., being the men contesting for the backstop Job. Beebe is said to have a better arm and is a little more active than the Vermont man. Irving Manley of this city is the most promising candidate for pitcher. Men's Meeting.

The men's meeting Sunday aftermon at the Bijou theater was not as largely attended as the two previous ones, but was none the less interesting. John H. Wyburn, superintendent of the McAuley mission of New York city, was the speaker, and he told of the mission's work and then related the story of his own life and appealed to those who wished to start anew.

His talk was very interesting and the manner in which the mission did its work was something a trifle different than has been previously told in the city. The Y. M. C. A. will endeavor to get some other good speaker for the next meeting. Men's Meeting.

The Clippers opened their season for 1910 most auspiciously Saturday afternoon when they went to South Coventry and took the team from that village into camp by the score of 17-1. The batteries were Martin and Hamel for the Clippers and Jigger and Flaherty for the South Coventrys, Fitch of South Coventry handled the indicator and it is reported did not do as well as the players. The Clippers are out for games with good, fast 16 or 18 year old teams, and would like to hear from any such through the columns of The Bulletin.

Quarrel in Stone Row. Captain Richmond and Lieutenant Killourey responded to a hurry call from the Stone row Saturday evening about 7 o'clock and straightened out a little trouble in the nature of a light that started between a Russian fight that started between a Russian Pole and another Polish resident.

When the officers arrived the tenement was barricaded and forcing an entry Lieutenant Killourey got the Russian. Captain Richmond, being told that the other fellow was in the next tenement hustled in there and looking underneath a small iron bed failed to see anybody, but prodding the darkness with a stick he felt something like a bundle of clothes. The officer slid the bed from side to side and the man went with it until the bed was ended up and he was found crouching close to the end in the corner.
